

in AVI format, the raw video data, the compressed video data and the video data suitable for GSM via a telecommunication connection by means of the operating system.

5                   12. Method according to claim 11, wherein the transmission is wireless.

                  13. Computer programme product comprising instructions and data which can be read by means of a computer device and which after having been read enable the computer device to perform the method according to one of the claims 7-12.

10                   14. Data carrier provided with a computer programme product according to claim 13.

